Yarema trained in Canada where he gained considerable experience in timber construction. Moving to the UK in 1998, he has advised major developers and landed estates on the redevelopment of complex sites in Central London and Birmingham. He has secured planning consent for over 3 million square feet of prime office and 500 residential units.

He has led projects including a £32m new build City office building behind retained Portland stone facades, a 4,000 square foot luxury residential refurbishment in an existing block of luxury apartments and a restaurant in a listed hotel next to Trafalgar Square. The director of property services for a major pension fund describes Yarema as “professional, commercial, responsive, enthusiastic and thorough.”

He is currently lead architect and contract administrator for the extension and reconfiguration of a GP clinic, and has recently completed a 2,500 square foot extension to a house, which included a new basement with a 14m swimming pool.

Yarema has extensive experience coordinating structure, services, cladding and finishes, and understands the information needed by main contractors and the various specialist trades. He has experience of both traditional and Design and Build procurement.

Yarema has completed the Expert Witness Institute Advanced Report Writing course.
